Ever think New York's public bathrooms were worth an award? Turns out, they may be.

Two NYC restrooms are among the ten finalists for an America's Best Restroom award: Bryant Park's surprisingly quaint public bathrooms and Midtown West's Muse Hotel's seven deadly sin-themed restrooms, reports DNAinfo.com.

"We spend a great deal of time and energy keeping it up and it's great to finally be recognized," Bryant Park operations manager Lindsey Boylan told the outlet. The park's restrooms - which service anywhere from 500 to 1,000 users daily, with as many as 12,000 for special events- have unique decorative elements, such as the huge bouquet of fresh flowers and aromatic oils.

We're going to be honest, our bathroom is not as clean as this. Whether you call them a restroom, loo, lavatory, toilet, or "the facilities," they are always an important part of being on the go. With this in mind the members and editors of travel website VirtualTourist.com have compiled this list of the "World's Top 10 Toilets." The winner is in our very own city!

1. Bryant Park; New York, NY

Who would have thought that a loo in the middle of such a dirty, noisy, frenetic city would have classical music, fresh flowers, and even an attendant! Visitors report that it's also spotlessly clean.
